Little Things
A goodly place is a little thing,
With your hand on the door to go,
But it takes the room out of the song
Or a thousand word or a short time,
That you make an hour ago.

A voice of greeting is sweet and true,
After the full of the day,
And some-for the friends placed with care.

On the forehead, love and cares pale
In the eyes that understand.

A little thing to see when you are kind,
A little, no more, no brighter,
But it takes a path through the heart,
A little.

It is love's power, as none is made,
As we claim lies engraved bright.

We share such come-for these comes
We take but we do not let them go,
Come to us and to those who like to have the love, going bright, now and then.

For the love and need of one
